'Hams' to Hear Army, Navy Men

Top communications officers of the Army and Navy will address some 3,000 radio "hams" at today's opening session of the national convention of the American Radio Relay League at the Auditorium.

Speakers on the 2 p. m. program include Maj. Gen. Spencer Akin, chief signal officer of the Army; Rear Adm. Earl Stone, communications director of the Navy; George Sterling of the Federal Communications Commission; Mayor Frank Zeidler; Ald. George Ruger; George Bailey, ARRL president; Clyde Richelieu, director of the league's central division, and George Bowen, president of the Milwaukee Radio Amateurs' Club.

The convention will close Monday.
